8. Public Safety Forum on Policy Change to Water 911 Calls

A new controversial emergency procedure will route water distress calls not directly to the lifeguards, but first through 911 dispatch, and then to fire dispatch, before being transferred to the lifeguard unit. San Diego Lifeguards contend that the change adds an unnecessary step, slowing down the lifeguards' emergency response time. The OBTC has invited SD Fire Chief Brian Fennessy and Ed Harris, leader of the SD Lifeguard Union, to speak on this recent policy change in the way that water distress calls are handled by the City. Jeff Hatfield, former Lifeguard President, longtime OB resident, and Lifeguard dispatcher will also sit on the panel.

9. Adjourn
